A Moment in Time, Forever Remembered: Signing off in style

Chala: With a heavy heart, we announce that this will be the final issue of Campus sign. For years, these pages have carried not only the stories of our campus but also the voices, dreams, and concerns of our students and staff. As we turn this last page, we remember the countless late nights of writing, editing, and designing, the thrill of seeing our paper in the hands of readers, and the pride of knowing that our words mattered.

From reporting on fests and debates, to highlighting achievements, and even daring to question what needed to be questioned - Campus sign was never just ink on paper. It was a mirror of our community, a space where friendships were celebrated, milestones recorded, and memories preserved.

Though the publication ends here, the spirit of Campus sign will live on in every reader who believed in the power of student voices. Thank you for being part of this journey.

This is not goodbye, but a reminder: stories never die, they simply find new ways to be told

TEACHERS DAY CELEBRATED WITH ENTHUSIASM

C K SHIYONA

You Inspire, You Guide, You Shape. Happy Teacher's Day

Chala: Teachers Day was celebrated with great respect and joy at Chinmaya Arts And Science college For women to honor the invaluable contributions of teachers in shaping students' lives. The program was organized by the college union, who put together a series of cultural and entertaining events as a mark of gratitude.

Teachers actively participated in fun games and light-hearted activities arranged by the students, adding liveliness to the program. The event concluded with a vote of thanks, acknowledging the tireless efforts of teachers and reaffirming the respect students hold for their mentors.

The day served as a reminder of the strong bond between teachers and students, making it a memorable occasion for all.

Students expressed their appreciation through heartfelt speech and conducted many fun games for teachers.

A JOURNEY OF CREATIVITY AND COMMUNITY

Creating a campus newspaper is a multifaceted process that involves various stages, from conceptualization to publication. Our campus newspaper, "Campus Sign", is a vibrant platform that showcases the diverse voices and perspectives of our student. We will explore the process of creating Campus Sign and the impact it has on our campus community.

The process of creating Campus Sign begins with conceptualization and planning. Our editorial team, comprising students from various disciplines, meets regularly to brainstorm ideas, discuss themes, and assign articles. We strive to cover a wide range of topics, from campus events and news to student life and opinions.

Once the ideas are brainstormed, our writers get to work on creating engaging and informative content. From feature articles and profiles to opinion pieces and reviews, our writers bring a unique perspective to the page. We also have a team of photographers and illustrators who contribute visuals to our publication, making it a visually appealing and engaging read.

Celebrating unity and harvest: Chinarts Onam celebration

Chala: Chinmaya Arts And on banana leaves, which Science college For womens brought students together. came alive with vibrant festivities as students, faculty, and staff gathered to celebrate Onam, Kerala's beloved harvest festival. The campus was decorated with traditional pookkalam filling the atmosphere with color and creativity.

The celebration began with a traditional shighari melam followed by cultural programs that showcased Kerala's rich heritage.

Students performed thiruvathira and other dance performances. The highlight of the festival's message of the day was the Onam Sadhya, prosperity, harmony, and a grand traditional feast served together.

The spirit of unity and joy was evident as students from diverse backgrounds participated with equal enthusiasm.

Speaking at the event, our Principal Seema M Thayyil appreciated the organizing committee for their efforts in making the celebration memorable, saying that festivals like Onam not only preserve tradition but also strengthen bonds within the campus.

The Onam celebrations at our college truly embodied our college's message of prosperity, harmony, and togetherness.

NSS BLOOD DONATION CAMP Spreading Hope and Life

Donate Blood, Save Lives: NSS Blood Donation camp at Chinarts

Chala: A voluntary blood donation camp was successfully organized by the NSS team of Chinmaya Arts and Science College for Women in association with Govt. General Hospital, Thalassery, on September 17. The event was a testament to the college's commitment to fostering a spirit of social responsibility among its students.

The event, held at the college auditorium from 9:30 a.m., saw enthusiastic participation from students who came forward to donate blood as part of the Raktadan Amrit Mahotsav 2.0 initiative.

The blood donation camp not only provided an opportunity for students to contribute to the community but also raised awareness about the importance of voluntary blood donation.

The NSS team's efforts in organizing the camp were commendable, and the response from the students was overwhelming. The blood donation camp was a huge success, and the college looks forward to hosting more such initiatives in the future.

Stars of Campus Sign

CAMPUS SIGN

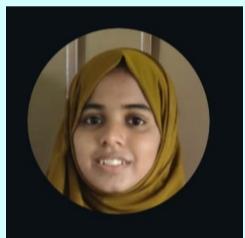

THE STARS BEHIND THE STORIES

▪ I am Afra KV, as a student, contributing to our campus newspaper, "Campus Sign", is an enriching experience that allows me to express myself, share my ideas, and engage with my peers. I will share my journey of contributing to Campus Sign and the impact it has had on me and our campus community.

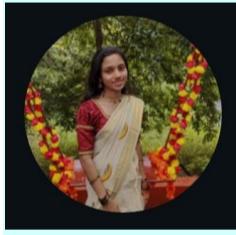

We started Campus Sign during my first year of this college, and I was immediately drawn to its vibrant and diverse content. As I flipped through its pages, I saw articles, opinions, and stories that resonated with me. I realized that this was a platform where students could share their voices and perspectives, and I knew I wanted to be a part of it. I started by writing articles on topics that interested me, such as campus events and student life. My contributions to Campus Sign have not only helped me grow as a writer but also allowed me to make a positive impact on our campus community.

▪ I am Aysha Thamanna K. It's hard to believe that a year has passed since I first started writing for our campus sign news. What began as a small step to share stories and experiences has become a journey of learning, growth, and connection. I've had the opportunity to report on meaningful events, and see how our campus thrives through the efforts of students and faculty alike.

This final issue feels bittersweet. While I'm proud of what we've accomplished together, it's also a moment to say goodbye. Journalism has taught me the power of listening, understanding, and sharing voices that matter. I'm grateful for every person who trusted me with their stories, supported this endeavor, and believed in the importance of student journalism.

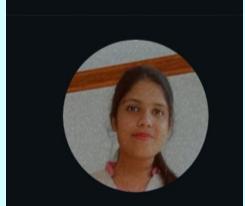

As I move forward, I carry with me the lessons and memories from this experience.

▪ I am Diya Rejith K. I had my first experience in newspaper writing during first year. Campus sign start from 2024-25. I have written many reports in the style of journalism, gaining confidence and passion for expressing events and ideas.

Actively contributed reports on campus events, cultural programs, and competitions. With each article, she grew more confident in presenting facts, shaping stories, and adding a touch of creativity.

▪ I am Shiyona CK. Our college newspaper plays an important role in keeping us informed about various events, activities, and achievements on campus. It provides a platform for students to showcase their writing skills, creativity, and opinions.

However, I feel the newspaper can include more sections such as student opinions, career guidance, and creative writing to make it even more interesting. If more students actively contribute, it will truly reflect the diverse voices of our campus.

Overall, I believe our college newspaper is a valuable medium of communication and expression, and with small improvements, it can become even better.

▪ I am R Vaishnavi. By covering campus events and issues, newspapers help foster a sense of community among students, faculty, and staff.

Campus newspapers provide a platform for students to express their opinions, thoughts, and creativity.

Campus newspapers offer students the opportunity to get involved in journalism, writing, and design, helping them develop valuable skills and build their portfolios.
